Christmas 3d

Christmas remains the most important holiday of the year for Western culture. Despite this, the roots of Christmas traditions are found present among the various cultures and peoples, even those who are foreign to the Christian religion. There are countless traditions with which the holiday as we know it today is celebrated: an intercultural and interreligious event that goes beyond the scheme and takes on the dimensions of the feast of love, friendship and universal understanding.

THE EXHIBITION ROOM

The visitor will take a journey through time. We will start from the tradition of Christmas and its origins, with the story of the metamorphosis from St. Nicholas of Bari - bishop of Mira - to become the most loved character by children all over the world: the iconic Santa Claus, whose existence lights up the Christmas holidays every year for young and old. The journey continues in a Christmas environment, created through objects, installations, sets, holograms, between virtual and augmented reality, with interactivity and digitality that will immerse the public in the Christmas spirit in a magical, engaging and exciting way. The path leads the visitor to Santa's house, where the host personally welcomes guests.

THE COMPANY

Medartec is an Italian production and distribution company that produces immersive multimedia experiences specializing in art and culture. We create emotional and innovative events that involve people of all ages, using the latest digital technologies. We distribute productions made by a team of technology experts and art historians with artistic knowledge and sensitivity. The company holds the rights of distribution and image of the events, including those for the promotion, production and sale of the merchandising created for the specific event. Immersive multimedia events not only expand the offer of what traditional museums make available, but also bring a new sensory experience of art that completely involves the viewer.

THE COMPANY

The events are curated and presented with highly definition images, emotionally combined with sounds and music. This cutting-edge technology guarantees visitors a unique and unforgettable sensory connection with art. During the artistic events, viewers have the opportunity to have fun by exploring the complete work of an artist in a single experience. Medartec's creative team is made up of architects, designers, video / film directors and software developers who together integrate the technical aspects of exhibition design, theatricality, communication and storytelling to create a multimedia sensory experience.
